

1 possible layout for splash page I have my photo inside a picture frame centered in the page and two buttons for the center page

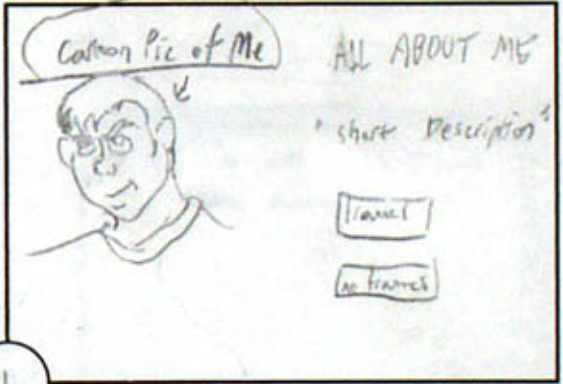

This could be a possible layout for my website

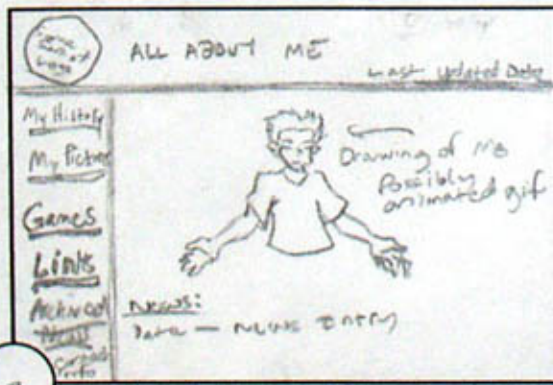

1 another possible splash page this one has my photo scanned in and blended into a background of white there is a frames no frames button on the right

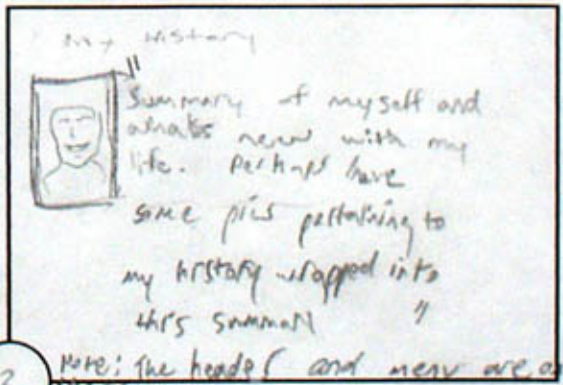

1 Splash page this is my photo inserted into a cartoon image with the button no frames version. The title is centered above my picture

1 This "idea" idea is like the one above it but I used a cartoon of me and decided to include a short description of the site

2 This is the navigation page it links from the splash page you can click to it from every other page too. There is a header with last update date as it and a menu in the light. It has links to the other content pages as well as the contact link to email me

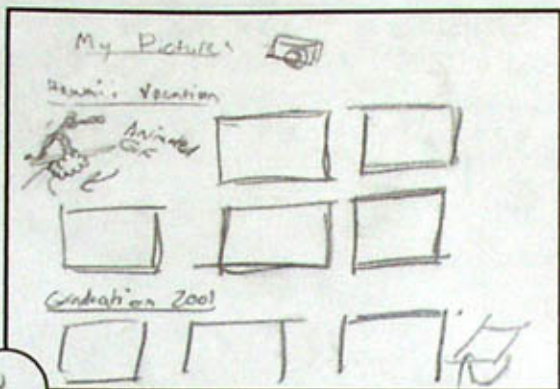

3 This page will contain information I have wrote about myself. I'll also include in from my major sites

This will be my photo page it will have a few animated gifs of decoration and illustrations of my photos. There thumbnails can be clicked on to view the real photo

This website will contain the games I like to play as well as my review and some of my friends reviews of them

6

I will probably put a nice animated gif here to spice
it up

This page will be fairly basic it will have links to sites I enjoy and my description of them

7

This page will also be plain at it will have a home page, photos the news from photos etc.
